Connections:- Ensure all involved in any car pooling exercise have exchanged contact details.
i.e. Mobile Phone numbers.

Departure Times:- The departure time is exactly that. Be there early rather than looking at a car driving off in the distance. This works for both the outgoing and return journey.

Reimbursements:- Usually a gratuity or something based on a per kilometre distance. Here are some examples:-

Assembly at Logan Hyperdome and travel to Tyagarah Beach and return is 260km. So at 10¢ a kilometre reimbursement a round figure of $20 would be appropriate if in a group - and more if you are a sole passenger.

Smaller trips can be $5 for the convenience to $10 if a sole passenger. The best way is simply to place the reimbursement in an envelope with your name on it and toss it in the glove-box or centre console of the car. Or maybe pay for some fuel for the car during the trip.

You all have a tongue in your head – so talk it out with the person giving you a lift. And best of all – be generous rather than stingy. Especially if you want to be considered as a future guest in that vehicle.

Conversations? Be sensible. The usual code of no talk on “sex, religion or politics” is our guide.

As usual this guidance will be usually be honoured in the breach than the observance. Keep it clean if in mixed company or when youngsters are around.

Say “thanks”. It’s just good form.
